Meet EVC student, Fumie Yoshida! Student marketing assistant, Charlize Tungol, chatted with Fumie and learned a little about his background and why he chose EVC to continue his education. This is her write-up on Fumie:

"Fumie Yoshida is currently taking his third semester of classes. As a former resident of Vietnam for 19 years and Japan for 45, Yoshida has lived multiple lives and still has the fulfilling desire to keep learning! After recently receiving his US citizenship, Yoshida is excited to take advantage of his learning opportunities here in America. At the ripe age of 70, he is currently taking ESL, Vietnamese, and sports activities classes. Yoshida also has two children that are familiar with the Bay Area. His son works in Sunnyvale and his daughter is currently a student at UCSD. Fumie’s wife actually attended EVC as well, and now goes to SJSU. As someone who used to work here and wants to continue taking classes here for as long as possible, Fumie describes EVC as a warm, welcoming environment in a great location with great professors and helpful classmates."
