BRAVO!

Congrats to alum Yosimar Reyes on an incredible run of shows (and sold out performances) for his world premiere of “No Llegamos Aquí Solos” at the Mexican Heritage Plaza in February.

Reyes, the first Santa Clara County undocumented Poet Laureate, continues to pursue advocacy for the Latino community after starting at EVC.

Teatro Visión Artistic Director Rodrigo García said:

“This new work seeks to shed light onto the stories of the people who continue to live and thrive in a community that is threatened to be displaced by gentrification. The high cost of living and the ravenous modernity cast a shadow on our most vulnerable communities and threaten to erase their very existence and legacy.”

ALUMNI GIVE BACK

[HER]ITAGE [HER] ENCIA

EVC and Supervisor Sylvia Arenas' office hosted a women's conference on March 7, which featured retired judge Erica Yew as the keynote speaker and breakout sessions on women in sports & media, advocacy, women in STEM, understanding one's finances and work/life balance.

WOMEN'S HISTORY MONTH

Umoja-AFFIRM hosted Aaliyah Stewart, now just 25 years old, Stewart started the ASW Foundation, an organization dedicated to gun violence, following the shooting of two of her brothers while in high school.

Former SJCC Umoja student Martha Coryne presented her short documentary, Glass Ceilings. It included candid reflections and soulful performances from the singer-songwriter.

CAMPUS EVENTS

EVC hosted its bi-annual Club Rush with nearly 20 clubs.

For two decades, EVC has celebrated the Lunar New Year with a campus ceremony.

STATE TRIO CONFERENCE

An all-day TRiO CenCal Student Leadership Conference brought together 17 different TRiO programs across the state to EVC in late February.

COFFEE WITH A COP

District Police in their bi-annual tradition hosted "Coffee with a Cop," one way they continue to engage with the EVC community.
